FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Valtech Hires Barbara Frankowski head Immigration Services

Growth Fuels Need for Streamlining Immigration Processes

DALLAS, March 29 – Valtech, a pioneering global provider of agile software development and digital technologies and services, today announced that it has hired Barbara (B.J.) Frankowski as Manager, Immigration Services to coordinate and streamline the recruitment process of all foreign hires for Valtech’s U.S. facilities. This includes internal placements from some of Valtech’s other locations around the globe.

Frankowski joins Valtech after spending the past two years with Spencer Crain Cabbage Healy & McNamara PLLC of Dallas. There, Frankowski was a Senior Immigration Paralegal managing immigration petitions and processes on behalf of U.S. corporations. Previously, she was Manager of Immigration services with Adea Inc., a global IT consulting, solutions and staffing company. In December 2010, Valtech acquired Adea, Inc.

Frankowski will closely work with managers within Valtech to recruit candidates and coordinate with those candidates to ensure that the visa and immigration processes are completed properly, and that each individual’s needs are addressed.

“Valtech is a vibrant organization competing in a fast-moving, global economy,” Shouvik Bhattacharyya, CEO of Valtech U.S., said. “We’re taking advantage of the diversity within the company to inform each other’s cultures and business styles, and seeking to place the most talented candidates from around the world where they can grow and benefit our customers.”

“Valtech is actively cross-pollinating its staff in offices around the world, and as we hire for specialty positions, sometimes our best candidates for some US-based projects are from Europe or Asia.”, Frankowski said. “My job is to make the immigration process as professional and smooth as possible, and I look forward to the reward of placing our best candidates in the positions we need to fill. It’s not just important to us,” she continued, “it’s essential to our customers.”

Frankowski has previous experience as Executive Director and Senior Paralegal with a large immigration law firm in Dallas. She is a member of the American Council on International Personnel.
